Writing Update

Our first graders have been doing a wonderful job writing in their notebooks everyday. They are learning to write stories about their own life!

Our second graders just wrote their first paragraph about a walk around the pond. They are amazing writers! Our third graders have been practicing writing paragraphs everyday!

Attendance

Regular attendance is important for all kids, and even more critical for kids with special needs. When your child is absent from school, he not only misses instruction and social interaction, but gets out of the routine. If you know in advance that your child is going to be absent, write me a note and I will send work home so your child won't get behind on academic learning.
